

Please read this message before submitting your question.

We have established this service for the sole pleasure of Allah and propogation of His Deen in its prestine form. It is our ardent desire to answer as many questions as possible. However, as much as we would like to help our Ummah, the resources are limited. We receive hundreds of questions every day! It is very hard for us to keep uptodate with the questions. For this reason, the questions run on a quota system. We have also set out rules for the types of questions we would tackle on the website. For this reason please follow the rules and guidelines provided below to make sure we can answer as many question as possible.

RULES COMING SOON

Wassalam